

Flames of Hamnam

One evening in October Juche 100 (2011) after giving on-site guidance at the major enterprises in South Hamgyong Province, Chairman Kim Jong Il had a talk with the officials, and said that the flames of a great upsurge were flaring up in the major factories, enterprises and farms, enumerating the successes achieved by them. Speaking highly of the vitality of the people in the province, he said that they should not slacken the spirit, but continue to advance in the vanguard of the people in the whole country.

Then he continued:

In the past the torches of Ranam and Songgang flared up in North Hamgyong Province, but now the factories and enterprises in South Hamgyong Province are raising the flames of upsurge. As we have brought about innovations in the revolution and construction following the torchlight of Ranam and Songgang in the past, we should ensure that from now on the whole country turns out following the flames of Hamnam, the flames of a great upsurge flaring up in South Hamgyong Province.

The flames of Hamnam were a fruition of the unique mode of revolution and creation, which the Chairman adopted to lead the revolution and construction along the road of victory by dint of fresh great revolutionary upsurges.
