

A Story about a New Uniform

One early June day in Juche 106 (2017), the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un looked round a plastic box production line newly established at the Kangso Mineral Water Factory.

While looking at an operator sealing the box caps with plastic sheeting beside a machine, he suddenly wore a worried expression.

The accompanying officials were puzzled.

Approaching the operator, Kim Jong Un looked at her blue overall for a while and touched it, before saying that the colour was very deep.

After a short while, he said that the overalls of operators should be made neat and clean as suited to the characteristics of a water factory and asked a relevant official to design a new uniform.

The officials were deeply moved by his meticulous care for the workers.

Later, Kim Jong Un, busy as he was, examined the design of a new uniform for the employees and saw to it that it was made of a white shirt and light blue trousers.

Thanks to his meticulous care, the appearance of employees in new uniforms became brighter, adding shine to the workshops of the factory.

The new uniforms represented his earnest request for the officials and employees of the factory to produce more mineral water for the people.