

Affectionate Call

One November day in Juche 103 (2014), the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un visited a factory and enjoyed a performance given by its art group members.

Speaking highly of them for giving a fine performance, he said with pleasure that every piece was replete with the Party's policies and attachment to their factory and fully showed not only the high ideological and artistic quality but the revolutionary character of workers to become standard-bearers and shock brigade in implementing the Party's lines and policies.

That day, he said to the officials: I am happy about my visit to a modern factory, but what is all the more pleased for me is that I witnessed the ideological and spiritual traits of its workers who are firmly armed with the Juche idea. Reading their mind to share their destiny with the Party, I was greatly encouraged and firmly convinced once again that I can overcome any trials cheerfully as we have our reliable working class.

Reliable working class!

This affectionate call reflected his ardent love and absolute trust in our heroic working class who have wrought miracles and exploits, giving full play to their mental strength with pure loyalty to follow the Party single-heartedly.

As they are greatly inspired by his boundless love for and trust in them, our working class are faithfully performing the mission and duty they have assumed before the country as befits the advance force of the Juche revolution and the eldest son of the nation.
