

Driving Force in the Era of Massive Transformation

Today mothers in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea are finding their worth of life in working devotedly for the building of a powerful socialist country.

Casting their lot with that of their country, they are devoting their all to the great cause of nation building.

Their images are reminiscent of the remarks by Kim Jong Un, General Secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea, that the women should not remain mere onlookers observing the developing times and reality within the narrow confines of their homes, and that they, as genuine masters, should become a driving force in the era of massive transformation.

His words carry his hope that they will be a powerful driving force that turns one of the two wheels of the revolution, thinking of the national interests before those of their families'.

Looking back, each chapter of the chronicles of the Korean revolution, resplendent with victory and glory, is credited in part to the devoted efforts the women made to contribute to the nation's prosperity shoulder to shoulder with men in following the patriotic road.

Thanks to Kim Jong Un's warm care and high trust, the women are doing a conspicuous share in developing the revolution and the country, strongly supporting the strenuous advance of the Korean style of socialism.

They are making an important contribution to the cause of paving the road of building of a powerful socialist country by working in a scrupulous, strenuous and industrious manner and in the spirit of self-reliance to implement the policies of the Workers' Party of Korea.

As there are such mothers, who are devoting their all to the good of their children as well as to the cause of the Party and the country as befits true revolutionaries and patriots under the care of Kim Jong Un, the Korean revolution is advancing victoriously and our everyday life is cheerful and pleasant all across the country.