

Phone Call at Dawn

The following happened on a September day in Juche 110 (2021).

As typhoon No. 16 was moving near the country, the State Hydro-Meteorological Administration was alert closely watching the movement of the typhoon. Then the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un made a phone call to the administration and asked an official questions about the typhoon.

After answering him, the official said to him that it was about 4 am and he should take care of his health.

Comrade Kim Jong Un said: You should think of the people before me; we should work hard, sparing time, to make the people live happily without any worries, even if we cannot have proper sleep.

The official had a lump in his throat.

Entrusted with the destiny of the country and people, you are always concerned about the people.

In general, people think that force of nature cannot be controlled.

But as he has the iron will that no force of nature, however formidable it may be, can do any harm to the lives and safety of our people, Comrade Kim Jong Un thinks of his people first at the mere sight of wind, cloud or rain; there is no such leader like him in the world.

Hearing this story, the Korean people realized once again that they owe their happiness to his painstaking efforts and devotion to them.
